

QUALIFICATIONS

Black and Platinum level applicants must currently operate as an investor, developer or builder actively serving the building industry. The scope of their work may include luxury high-rises, luxury single-family homes, commercial properties and mixed-use properties. Industries served are healthcare, science, retail, cultural, corporate, hospitality, manufacturing, industrial, office, government, transportation and education.

Silver level provider's applicants must currently operate within the various industries that serve the building and development field. These may include, but not limited to, professional services, concrete work, masonry, stonework, tile setting, plastering, manufacturers, finance, roofing contractors, road construction, plumbing and HVAC.

Each business partner applicant must undergo stringent screening as well as internal and external review in order to have the privilege of participating in the DBA® network.

BENEFITS

Social Media Platforms is a fast and economical way to reach new markets. The DBA extends this powerful marketing tool in its efforts to partner with members to promote their products and services.

Through our global partnership in relevant trade expos, the DBA will act as an extension of your company -by providing you- with access to scrutinized data of qualified attendees and exhibitors, so you can be sure you are receiving only the newest information and trends, thus maximizing time, save money while promoting interaction.

Education in the management of environmental practices, providing information on how to certify your building, business practices or yourself through DBA. Members whose companies currently conduct ecological business operations will be formally validated and listed as a company in compliance within our network platform.

We help maximize the power of public relations and boost brand awareness by you participating in the Developers & Builders Alliance events. These events correspond with our corporate values and goals that promote connections and build opportunities.

Benefit from the robust backing of our full-service video, photography and events management production department which can be instrumental in achieving the benefits of a truly integrated communications campaign. DBA delivers integrated visual solutions and down-to-earth strategies that are budget-conscious and ready to implement.